

Student Achievement Data for Arizona State University's Master of Interior Architecture Degree

The Master of Interior Architecture (MIA) degree is offered by The Design School's Interior Design program. It typically takes a full-time student two years to earn the MIA degree. This includes 29 credits the first year and 27 credits the second year. There is no part-time option available. Students without a design background begin in the 3+ program one year prior to admittance into the 2-year MIA program.

The following data was collected using institutional records and from faculty communication with graduates three months after graduation.

Student Attrition and Retention

*90% of students admitted in the fall of 2013 returned in the fall of 2014, putting attrition at 10%.
100% of students admitted in the fall of 2014 returned in the fall of 2015, putting attrition at 0%.
100% of students admitted in the fall of 2015 returned in the fall of 2016, putting attrition at 0%.*

Graduation Rates:

Of the students graduating in 2015 and 2016, 100% graduated in 2 years.

Acceptance into Graduate Programs:

As the Master of Interior Architecture is a graduate degree, the majority of graduates do not pursue additional post-graduate education. However, one graduate has continued into a research Master's degree and another graduate has continued on as a Doctor of Philosophy candidate.

Job Placement Rates:

100% of students who graduated in 2015 and 2016 are employed in interior design or a related profession, or are pursuing further graduate education.