ARP 484/LAP 484/ARP 584/LAP 584: The Design School Internship for Architecture + Landscape Architecture Programs

Internship Coordinators:

- Joe Ewan (Landscape Architecture)
- Scott Murff (Architecture)

Course Objectives:

In order to ensure the professional level student an orderly, cohesive, complete, and diversified program of internship training in preparation for a career of professional practice, The Design School at Arizona State University, together with previous participating firms, foundations, corporations and municipal offices, share the following intentions:

- a) It is the proper function and objective of professional level programs in architecture and landscape architecture to provide a specialized educational background of design and technical subjects, to examine and evaluate the professional level students in these courses, and to provide an atmosphere conducive to the development of a professional attitude. In addition, a realization of the need for the experience obtained through an internship or office residency program should be minimal preparation for entrance into professional practice.
- b) It is the proper function and traditional responsibility of the profession and the professional schools to provide a program of internships, or residencies, and make available to the professional level student varied opportunities for experience representative of the diversity of office practice.
- c) It is the proper function and objective of The Design School at Arizona State University to evaluate the experience, knowledge, and judgment gained under internship programs.

In the professions, there is an age-old tradition of mentorship which is a consistent component of a professional level education. This tradition has evolved as a system of apprenticeships augmenting university sponsored professional level programs. Today, in fact, there are few practitioners who have not received some professional exposure prior to completing formal university training in professional schools of architecture and landscape architecture.

The Design School's evolving internship program meets this need to facilitate outside professional experience as part of the educational process for the professional level student in preparation for practice upon graduation.

This internship program is for all professional level students who will spend a minimum of 200 hours in a professional office specializing in architecture or landscape architecture, and receive university credit. We require this, or an equivalent experience, for all professional level students before they graduate. The students greatly benefit from this exposure to office experience, and are more valuable upon graduation to the professional offices they enter.

INTERN'S RESPONSIBILITIES

It is the intern's responsibility to contact the internship employer, secure internship employment, verify all internship employer office hours, and to honor all internship employer policies.
